FOREWORD

So many things have happened during the two years the Class of '45 has been a part of the Sacramento College that we cannot enumerate them all. We feel that a resume of some of the outstanding events may serve in later years to startle you with the rapid changes you lived through, and to clear your recollections of the "good old days" at Sacramento College.

Two years ago, with the Campus suddenly deprived of college men, the girls, deciding they must "grin and bear it," were comforted by members of the STAR Unit stationed out here. However, there were no plays—no football team—no basketball team. Campus life was often dull. Everyone seemed apathetic, listless, and only turned out for events such as the Assembly at which "great hunk of man" Mature appeared.

The gals, sitting on the lawn eating their home packed lunches, gazed longingly through the cafeteria windows at the luscious food being served their khaki-clad friends. In the Pony Office the staff was busily arguing over women's rights and what Count di Luna's opinion might be—and in the Senate, the members debated the question "Should we buy Riverside Paths?" The Art Ball was as successful and almost as profitable as in normal times. And there came a night when the entire SC Student Body, along with the rest of Sacramento and vicinity, moved down to the Memorial Auditorium to see Harry James hand a bouquet to Shirley Haskell, pretty Pioneer Queen.

But remember how the pace stepped up in '44-'45! We've done things at Sacramento College this year that two years ago none would have dreamed possible. We had a football team and a basketball team; a better than ever Art Ball, on the South Seas theme; many successful social affairs; and even one play. Student government has been more active. The Christmas Assembly was one of the most beautiful affairs we've had on the Campus.

The news of President Roosevelt's death came like a bolt of lightning down on the Campus as well as all over the world. V-E Day was spent quietly and classes were held as usual.

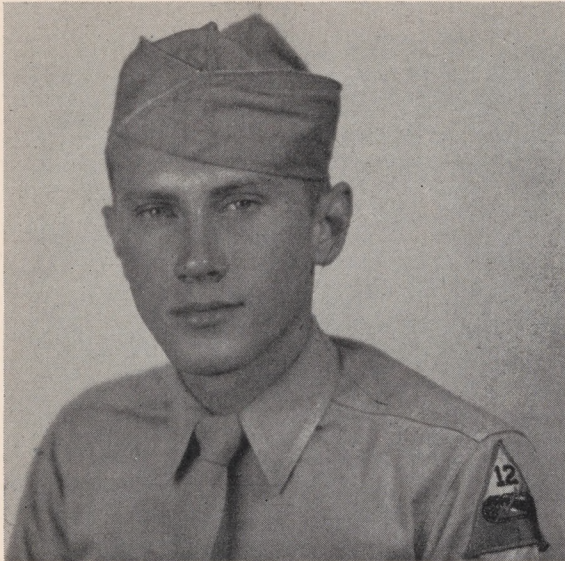

The Graduation Picnic will be remembered by all those who attended, and who will ever forget those bridge games in the Corral? The Cosmetology Building offered something of interest to the campus one morning, when out of its doors came two pink-haired boys. The outdoor election rallies were new to this class, as was checking on the student body officers by the Senate.

If one had been visiting the campus around 1:00 P. M. one day, he would have found the students raving about one Nadine Jansen, pianist and trumpeter, who had just given a fine performance in the Auditorium.

"The Drip" was one of the favorite columns in the Pony, while her boy friend was the favorite campus "Frankie Sinatra."

There were numerous other events I could mention—the Tolo Dances, Pioneer Day, the Freshman Balls, the Stag-Stagettes and many, many others that each individual student might think important. But in a few years when you, the Class of 1945, are earning your living and doing your part in the world, don't be too busy or pre-occupied to open the 1945 Pioneer and recall those "good old days" at Sacramento College.

Pioneer Editor, Spring

"Dear Folks:

"We must remember that there is a job to be done, first, before anyone can be happy again. I am more than willing to do my part to make this place a Christian world with the policy of brotherly-love predominating. There are many men who have, and who are, I giving up things much more precious and more dear than I have. I have no wife or children to depend on me, but I am remembering that I have the best folks in the world back home, praying for my safety and well-being. This is a time when a person cannot think of himself. It is a time when a fellow has to put selfish ideas aside to work for a free world. It may be hard to admit this, but I believe in my heart that I am right. I hope that you will bear with me.

"Many people have asked me, as they have others, just what we are fighting for. It's a hard question to answer, but I've decided on several answers--while awaiting my call to duty, I have had much time to think. I am fighting for you, Mom and Dad, for all the wonderful people like you; for God and his principles; for those little kids next door, and all over the world, that they might grow up in a world free from war and tyranny; for the right to see the sun rise and set on a free world; for the right to read the books I want, to worship the religion I want, to walk down the street with my soul happy and my conscience free;--that's what I'm fighting for. I am willing to give up those little things (which seem so big)--driving my own car, calling on my best girl for a date, enjoying a home life such as ours, and many other things. This is a time when we must all make those sacrifices--there can be no exception.

"A great day has been today--the invasion has begun. There will still be much suffering to come, but we are on the road back to freedom. Anyone who does not do his part at this time, is a traitor to his country--whether it be strikers, black marketeers, etc.

"I have prayed to God, every night, and even during the day, sometimes, that He guide me and help me make the right decisions. It may be that this is what he wants me to do. Please, Dear Folks, believe in me and help me to go through these times. We must all give everything to end this soon, and our prayers must continue for those men who are now dying and suffering for us.

"Maybe this letter will be shocking to you, but I've thought much on the subject and these are my convictions. I pray to Almighty God that I have made the right decision.

"God Bless You Both."

In the 1944 Pioneer a two-page spread was dedicated to the A.S.T.P. Unit that was stationed at Sacramento College from August 1943 to May 1944. One of the soldiers, PFC Burt T. Krueger, was designated to pose in a series of pictures as "the typical A.S.T.P. student." On January 8, 1945, PFC Krueger was fatally wounded on a battlefield somewhere in France. This book is in memory of him and of others who have given their lives in this war.

To the left is a portion of a letter written by Krueger to his parents in June, 1944, that was published this April in a pamphlet as an Easter message to the men and women of the Tractor Works in Chicago who are serving in the Armed Forces.

A MESSAGE TO THE GRADUATES OF 1945

Historians now seem to be agreed that "Thomas Paine with his pen contributed as much toward the winning of the Revolutionary War as did Washington with his sword." Such praise for Thomas Paine may be attributed in part, at least, to research which reveals that wars are fought with moral might as well as with physical power.

Thomas Paine united the people behind Washington by writing "a best seller," The Rights of Man. This book was a potent influence in providing the moral support which Washington and his army needed, particularly in critical days.

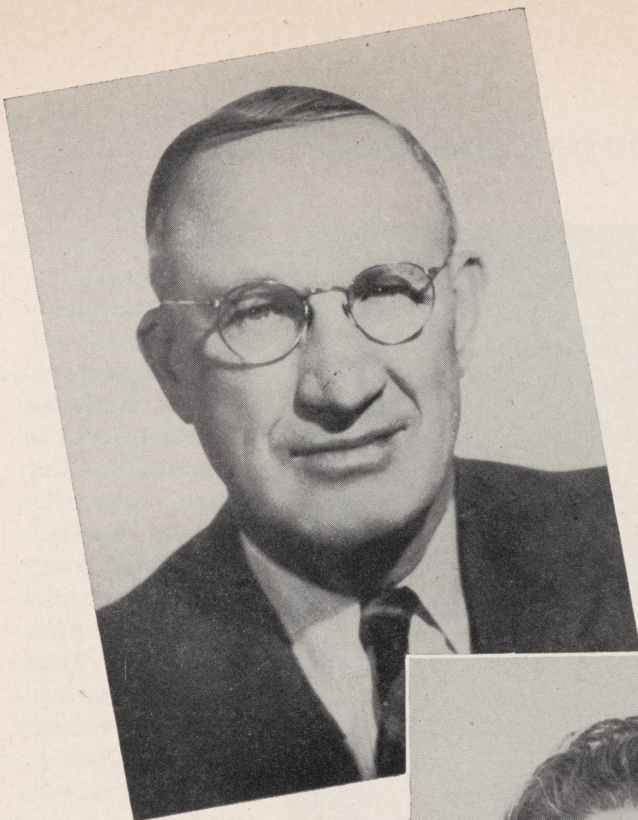

Today we need someone who can write another "best seller," whose title may be, The International Rights of Man. As in the days of the Revolutionary War, the great need today is for unity and the moral might that will make world brotherhood a reality.

How is such need to be met? You, college men and women, are best qualified to answer that question. If that need is met as it should be, we can say with assurance that your future is not at all dark. Indeed, the prospect of world brotherhood, recognizing the international rights of man, points to a very bright future. We can make brotherhood a reality if we are guided by this thought:

"Grant that I may not so much seek to be understood as to understand. . . . Where there is doubt, let me sow faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light."

Best wishes and warmest personal regards.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION OFFICERS

Pictured are the three student leaders who, with the aid of appointed officers, led the student organization in an active Fall semester.

Highlights of the semester were the Stag-Staggette, the Freshman Ball, Tolo, and the revival of football and basketball games, which had not been played on this campus since the beginning of the war.

Committees which play an important part in the functioning of student government are the Activities Committee, the Senate, the Supreme Court, the Budget Committee, the Rules Committee, and the Cabinet. With the aid of these various committees, the pictured officers helped to formulate a successful calendar for the Fall semester.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION OFFICERS

These are the student officers who are responsible for one of the most active and successful semesters the student-body of Sacramento College remembers.

They are the people who did most to revive that intangible thing called "school spirit," which is so important in making a success of student government and activities.

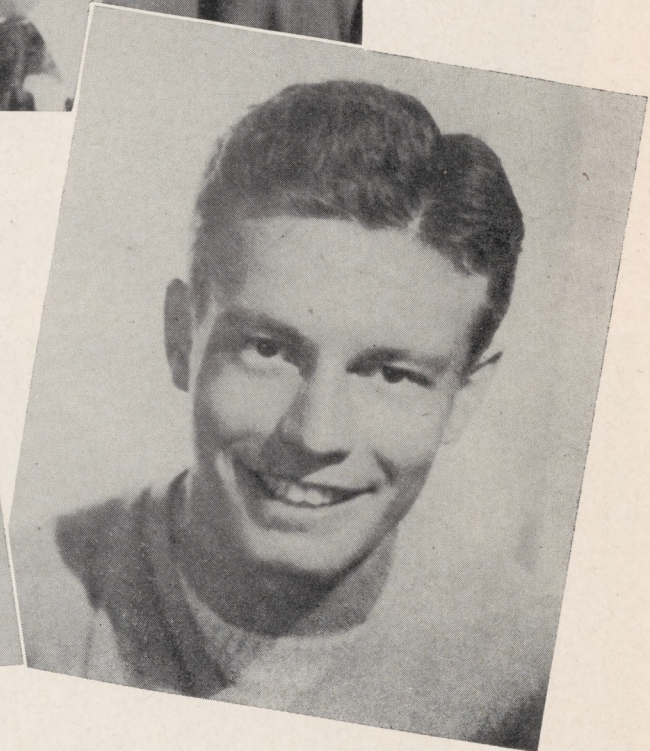

Mary Didion, who was elected to the office of Women's Vice-President, deserves a great deal of credit for the role she played in student government. In the middle of the semester, both the President, James Kavouris, and the Men's Vice-President, Jack Puffinbarger, resigned, and Mary finished the semester as acting president. The former Men's Vice-President, Puffinbarger, acted as Activities Chairman for the remainder of the semester.

The Senate is one of the most important organizations in any student government. It is this body which determines the laws which rule the student association, and adds or eliminates the laws as its members see fit.

No student government can function successfully unless it has a good Senate, and we have been very fortunate in the discretion the students have shown in the choice of Senators.

The Senate is composed of a certain number of students from each precinct, and some of their terms are for a semester, and some for a year.

Senators must maintain a "C" average in their classes, and must be passing in at least 10 units.

Art Ball

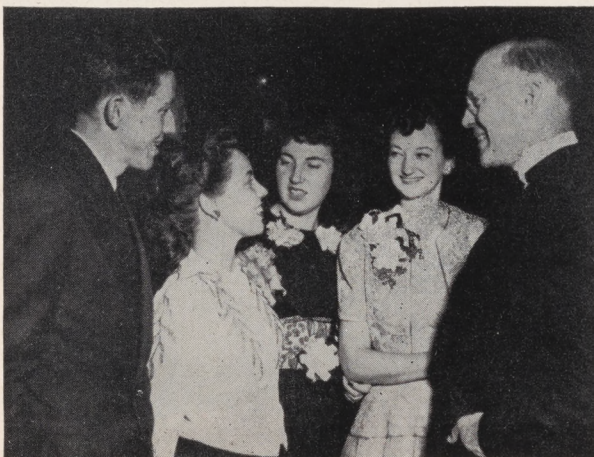

CAROL MIZZY, Queen

Approximately two thousand Sacramentans were present at the 19th Annual Art Ball which was presented by the Art Students' League of Sacramento College on November 10, 1944. All of the many weeks of preparation and anxious anticipation were culminated in one of the most successful art balls ever presented.

Carrying out the enchanting theme of the "South Seas" was a huge idol worshiped by the island natives. In front of this awesome background a pageant was unfolded which abounded in tropical mystery, native rites, and beautiful island dances. Soft-colored lights, music accompanied by the beat of island drums, and the writhing bodies of the dancers were perfectly co-ordinated to conjure the tropical atmosphere of the South Seas.

AMERICAN RED CROSS COLLEGE UNIT

The College Unit, organized in June, 1944, completed its first year of activity. During the first semester, students met one afternoon each week to make surgical dressings, and worked on knitting projects.

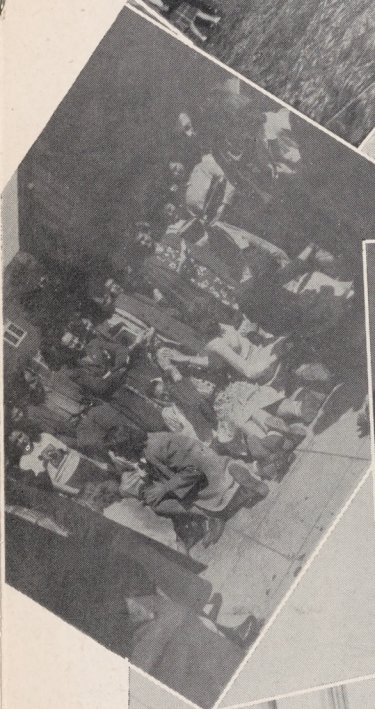

In the second semester there was active participation in the War Fund Drive. A work shop for the repair of furniture was set up under the supervision of the Camp and Hospital Chairman, and here the girls learned to tear down, tie springs, adjust new webbing and padding, and cover chairs for hospital day rooms. Much credit was due to Anita Hawkins, Sharlott Schultz, Margaret Robinson and to members of Sigma Iota Chi Sorority which sponsored the project, and to the able instruction of Mrs. C. A. Ecklund.

During the year, a group of college girls under the sponsorship of Miss Margaret Harrison have made trips every two weeks on Wednesday evenings to DeWitt Hospital at Auburn for the purpose of furnishing entertainment to hospitalized servicemen.

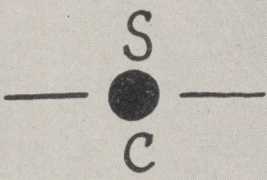

Officers: Patricia Jerome, Chairman, First Semester; Doris Mae Woolford, Chairman, Second Semester; Virginia Bennett, Vice President; Dolores Stadler, Secretary; Mrs. Frederick P. Vickery, Chapter Chairman for the College Unit; Mary Stafford, Faculty Sponsor.

GRADUATES

To the 1945 Graduates:

It is with mingled feelings that I address this final message to you.

I rejoice that you have successfully completed your requirements for graduation and are about to take the next great step in your educational careers—but I regret that you are to leave our campus and that I shall not have the continued privilege of daily association with you.

Your two years with us have been unique in the history of our college. You watched our campus change almost overnight from a strictly educational institution to an army set-up when the Army Specialized Training Program, Star Unit, was established here, when our gymnasiums and upper floors became barracks, our cafeteria became a mess hall, and the young soldiers, books in hand, marched in military formation to the library for study hours. Then you saw the army "fold its tents" and vanish to other fields, while we struggled to return to as near normal as possible.

You have participated in the Red Cross work which has been functioning on our campus by giving hours of service to the Bandage Rolling Unit, and also hours of real effort to remaking furniture for the Camp and Hospital Unit. Some very excellent furniture for the use of the convalescent soldiers has been rebuilt and reupholstered by you and your associates.

You have seen the south wing of our main building converted into a Veteran's Rehabilitation Guidance Center, and you have welcomed scores of returned veterans to our campus or greeted them as they passed through the center.

You have watched our boys march off to war and have courageously and cheerfully faced campus life as a predominantly feminine group.

And finally, you have had the experience of entering Sacramento Junior College and of graduating from Sacramento College, for during your two years our name has been officially changed.

My very best wishes go with you.

Very sincerely, your friend,
BELLE COOLEGE.
